Senior Professional (m/w/d) Program Management Office (PMO)

Tasks

In this role, you are part of the PMO team for a large customer program. You are responsible for defining, planning, implementing and monitoring overarching program management standards, methods and processes. You ensure transparency towards relevant stakeholders inside and outside the program (e.g. steering groups, committees). You support the program management and the project team along the classic project management dimensions (e.g. risk management, project planning). They support cross-program communication, change and enabling measures in collaboration with the human resources department

Qualifications

You have successfully completed a master's degree with a background in economics or natural sciences. You have qualified professional experience in the areas of project or program management, especially with regard to methods, processes and tools. In your professional practice you have developed strong analytical and methodological skills as well as various problem-solving techniques. You are characterized by a high level of process understanding along the entire value chain as well as through strong teamwork and diplomatic skills. You have very good user knowledge of MS Office (especially PowerPoint and Excel). Very good German and Knowledge of English completes your profile.
